

Rick Juneja T'03
Manager
Alvarez & Marsal, LLC

Serving as a student host in the VE Program is one of my most memorable experiences from Tuck. The opportunity to act as Tuck's ambassador while interacting with senior executives from some of the world's most successful companies enriched the Tuck experience for me. Not only was the role rewarding—as it allowed me to work closely with the administration, a small group of classmates and a handful of senior executives—it was also a lot of fun.

Today I am a manager at Alvarez & Marsal, LLC, a corporate turnaround and restructuring consulting firm based in New York City. I work closely with the CEOs and CFOs of troubled companies helping them improve under-performing businesses. I also work with private equity firms performing operational due diligence on potential acquisition targets and managing post-merger integrations. It's not your typical consulting firm; we are very hands-on, and often take over full organizations until we can stabilize them. It's very challenging work, but incredibly rewarding, and as with my work with the VE Program, I'm fortunate to be working alongside a talented team of individuals from diverse backgrounds.