

The Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth
Faculty Search in Strategy and Management
August, 2011

The Strategy and Management Group at the Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth College seeks to fill one or more tenure-track positions in Organizational Behavior beginning in July 2012. All ranks of assistant professor or above will be considered. We are especially interested in candidates with a strong foundation in meso or macro OB. Qualified candidates will be expected to conduct a sustained, high quality program of research and to teach effectively in the core Leading Organizations course and in second-year electives in organizational behavior.

The Tuck School of Business, founded in 1900, is consistently ranked among the top ten U.S. business schools. The current faculty of the Strategy and Management group includes Ron Adner, Pino Audia, Ella Bell, Richard D'Aveni, Sydney Finkelstein, Vijay Govindarajan, Len Greenhalgh, Constance Helfat, William Joyce, Andrew King, Adam Kleinbaum, Margaret Peteraf, Alva Taylor, and Judith White.

The Tuck School fosters an environment that is intellectually stimulating and interdisciplinary. We welcome diversity. We look for excellence in both research and teaching and provide ample financial and logistical support in a highly collegial culture as a means to achieve these ends. The School provides faculty with state-of-the-art computer technology enhanced with in-house programming support. Library and secretarial support is generous, and funding is provided for research assistance and for travel related to either research or teaching.

Chartered in 1761, the town of Hanover is a pleasant New England town that boasts sophisticated educational and cultural resources. Residents enjoy a first rate public school system and an award-winning teaching hospital, among other amenities. Recreational opportunities are abundant all year round, from paddling on the Connecticut River, to golf or skiing at college facilities that are open to the public, to hiking the Appalachian Trail, which runs through town.

Hanover is located in the scenic Upper Valley of the Connecticut River, two hours from Boston, and three hours from Montreal, and a short flight from New York City.
